Randolph to be manager of Jackson 16th Sections

By EDGAR PEREZ
Former Hancock County Superintendent of Education Terry Randolph this week was named 16th Section land manager by the Jackson County School Board.

The board, at a Tuesday night meeting in Pascagoula especially called to name a 16th Section manager, approved an $8,000 salary for the part-time position.

In addition, Randolph will receive a five percent commission on all new leases he negotiates, with the exception of timber sales and gas and oil exploration.

The contract between Randolph and the board is expected to be finalized at the board's Feb. 4 meeting.

Randolph, a Diamondhead resident, said Wednesday other considerations included in the contract include office space in the school board building in Pascagoula, office supplies and maps and other materials necessary to fulfill the contract, secretarial services and use of a district owned overland vehicle.

His one-year contract will call for Randolph to be in Jackson County at least two days each week and to file a monthly report to the board.

Randolph emphasized Wednesday he is 'independently employed.'

Previously cited by former State Land Commissioner John Ed Ainsworth as one of the most knowledgeable men in the state when it comes to 16th Section lands, Randolph was selected for the job by the Jackson County board from among four other applicants.

Also presenting proposals to the board were attorneys Guy Krebs of Pascagoula and James Murphy of Vancleave; the Century 21 Realty firm of Ocean Springs; and Sid Jones,

Mayor recommends Hamilton

Bay council balks at port selection

By RICH ADAMS
The Bay St. Louis City Council, in a split vote Tuesday, tabled a recommendation by Mayor Larry Bennett that bank executive Robert Hamilton be named to the Hancock County Port and Harbor Commission.

Hamilton later Tuesday asked the mayor to withdraw his name from consideration for that position because of possible conflict with another position he holds.

Three of five councilmen at a special recess meeting Tuesday afternoon voted to postpone the Hamilton appointment, Councilmen Harry Farve and Fred Wagner voting against the delay.

Bennett said Wednesday Hamilton had contacted him Tuesday night after the council meeting and asked that his name be withdrawn from consideration.

Hamilton said Wednesday that he withdrew his name from consideration

Coliseum becomes Space Craft, Nereids lands on Planet Luna

The Krewe of Nereids took guests on a visit through outer space to the green planet of Luna Saturday night at the Mississippi Coast Coliseum.

The captain, portraying Alia, The Maker of Light, arrived amid a cloud of fog in a spaceship complete with blinking lights and robots.

In the midst of creepy, crawley green people the captain commanded her cadets to build the "Perfect Machine." Ugly green people were put into the giant magical machines and transformed into the "Beautiful People" portrayed by Maids of the Royal Court.

Shuttle test firing reset for today

By WAYNE DUCOMB JR.
A scheduled test firing, Wednesday at the National Space Technology Laboratories (NSTL), of the space shuttle's main propulsion system has been delayed until 1:30 p.m. today.

"The space shuttle's main propulsion system test at NSTL has been delayed at least one day due to a faulty liquid oxygen fill and drain valve in the orbiter simulator section of the test article," said Mack Herring, the National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA) public information officer at NSTL.

Mississippi Coast will bear effects of oil spill

By WAYNE DUCOMB JR.
The Bay of Campeche oil spill is still out of control.

U.S. Government agencies monitoring the spill doubt the well will be controlled in the near future and feel the Mississippi Gulf Coast as well as the entire Gulf of Mexico will be effected by the disaster.

At the Boulder, Colo. office of the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration (NOAA), Oil Spill Science Coordinator John Robinson says, "We don't exactly know the effect this much oil for this amount of time will have on the Gulf."

"I would be very concerned about the health of the entire Gulf. If something shows up it won't be for a couple of years but, there will be a general degradation of the entire Gulf system," Robinson states.

"At one time we had eight to 10 percent of the Gulf covered with oil," Robinson adds.

"Redfish, which lay eggs on the surface of the water, will be harmed seriously and the Gulf weather system will be effected because oil inhibits the evaporation of water from the Gulf into the atmosphere," Robinson explains. "Ships have spotted dolphins and turtles in the middle of the floating oil mats. I think they are attracted to the oil as some sort of shelter. Also birds are getting caught in the oil," Robinson adds.

Petty Officer John Rubertas, working with the U.S. Coast Guard's on-scene coordinator in Corpus Christi, Texas says, "Historically speaking we expect the oil to turn northward as early as February. During the summer months the Gulf flows clockwise and during the winter flows counterclockwise."

"Last summer the oil took two and a half months to get to Brownsville, Texas and another month to get to Corpus Christi," Rubertas states.

"As of right now, we're gearing up to handle oil from the Mexican border to Port Aransas, but the oil might head anywhere depending on winds and currents," Rubertas comments.

"Oil at the well site is still out of control and is on fire. The large metal sombrero was over the well for a while but it is back in Port Aransas. Two relief wells have been drilled but, one is only getting a small amount of oil," Rubertas says.

"Nothing we've heard has led us to believe the oil will be stopped. For instance, two weeks ago PEMEX (the Mexican oil company who owns the well) said the well would be capped in two days," Rubertas says.

"The only thing we can do is monitor and clean up the oil," Rubertas adds. Robinson says, "At the moment, we have oil 100 miles from Brownsville and it doesn't look like they are making very good progress at all in stopping the well."

"We are gearing up for an impact along the Texas Gulf Coast but, it's not likely the oil will reach the Mississippi and Louisiana Gulf Coast," on feels.

"However, we are very cautious about making such projections because last year the oil could have easily reached the Louisiana Coast," Robinson says.

"An engineer from Massachusetts Institute of Technology has confirmed that the flow from the well has not been slowed and the well has continued to flow into the Southern Gulf and Southern Gulf Coast. I estimate 50,000 gallons per hour are flowing into the Gulf," Robinson explains.

"I don't think the Mississippi Gulf Coast will feel a direct, immediate impact from the oil spill, but there could be a dramatic impact after a few years," Robinson states.

A serious problem has come to light at Hancock General Hospital, an influx of visitors.

A heavy load of patients has created a problem in the numbers of visitors and we are told this creates a problem in allowing the patients to receive proper rest and care.

We would like to urge each of you who have a friend or relative in Hancock General to observe the visiting hours.

The scheduled visiting hours are from 2:30 to 4:30 p.m. and from 6:30 to 8:30 p.m. Patients in intensive care are only allowed one person for five minutes on the hour and no children under 12 are allowed to visit.

We hope each and every one of you will try and follow the visiting hours so your relatives and friends can be given the proper care they deserve.

Congratulations are in order for William (Bill) Frisbie on his being elected to serve on the Mississippi Gulf Coast Crime Commission.

In many conversations with Bill, he has always shown a serious concern about crime in our county and also along the Gulf Coast.

David Treutel is a previously elected member of the Crime Commission from Bay St. Louis and he too is concerned about our community.

We are fortunate to have very good representation from our county and wish them luck in helping solve the problems of crime along the Coast.

We hope you all do attend the official opening of the Welcome Center tomorrow morning.

An all-out effort is being made by the Hancock Chamber of Commerce and the Mississippi Gulf Coast Chambers of Commerce to have as many folks as possible attend.

The Hospitality Station will be a benefit to all of us along the Coast. It should help direct visitors through our area and many will stop along the way and spend money with our merchants which in time will effect all of us.

See you at the Hospitality Station Friday, Feb. 1st, 10 a.m. ribbon cutting.

It looks like we may have another problem in securing fuel in the coming months.

We hope it will not happen again, but just like the cost keeps going up and up, indications are there will be another shortage.

We know we have cut on the amount of driving we do, and hope that each of you will do the same.

Everyone is talking about the fine Mardi Gras Ball presented by the Krewe of Nereids at the Mississippi Gulf Coast Coliseum. It was spectacular, out of space!

The facilities at the Coliseum seemed to make everything go a lot better than on previous Nereids Balls.

We had one member tell us they worked up to curtain time to get everything ready, but they were very happy with the outcome like everyone who attended.

Washington report

AMERICA'S SHABBY FOREIGN POLICY

"Foreign policy must be clear, consistent and confident."

—Dwight David Eisenhower, 1953

Those words should ring as true today as they did almost 30 years ago. The fast-paced events in the world, including the seizure of American hostages in Iran and the Russian aggression in Afghanistan, bring current conditions into sharp focus.

While the United States should speak with one voice during these difficult times, and not try to second-guess the President, I believe a look at how these crises developed is relevant. Our general world policy during the past three years has been one of weakness, counterproductive "human rights" rhetoric, and trust of the Russians. The policy was at best, naive.

Iran is an example. Reports have surfaced that Iran fell to the Ayatollah Khomeini and his fanatics because the U.S. jerked the rug out from under the Shah, or any other potential civilian government.

The Washington Post recently detailed how senior U.S. military officers, acting at the direction of the President, actually paved the way for the Shah's regime to crumble. Ostensibly, according to the report, the officers were attempting to avert a bloodbath should the Iranian military attempt a coup.

But in the process, they also eliminated the chance for a nonmilitary government to take control. The resulting chaos, with 50 Americans still being held hostage, speaks for itself. That chaos may also account, at least partially, for the Soviet Union's December raid on Afghanistan.

The final outcome of the imprisonment of our diplomats in Iran is not a test of the Carter Administration's foreign policy. Even if the hostages were released today, the world crisis we are facing would still exist. Surely our country's senior advisers know by now that perceived weakness, confusion and hesitancy at home contribute to crisis abroad. We must get rid of the sense of guilt and weakness which has been gnawing at our policy-makers.

Once a policy of containment, the U.S. policy toward the Soviet Union has become one of appeasement. The road to our former position will be a long one.

As Theodore Roosevelt said in 1913, "The only safe rule is to promise little, and faithfully to keep every promise; to speak softly and carry a big stick."

SALTY SALLY

UNABLE TO READ - The sign at right on North Beach Boulevard undoubtedly cannot be read by the persons responsible for dumping used furniture, garbage, trash, etc. further down the beach. We just wonder what will it take to keep people from dumping in areas where it is prohibited! If some fines were issued to those caught by the police, maybe some it would be eliminated. We are all proud of being residents of the Mississippi Gulf Coast, or at least we think most of us are, but folks who do not care should pack their bags and go elsewhere. There is a designated dumping area in the County, all garbage and trash should be dumped there, and only there. We hope some law enforcement people get strict and the judges do their thing.

Combined transportation sought by area agencies

by WAYNE DUCOMB JR.

Catherine Brackin, director of Hancock Industries in Bay St. Louis, reported at a quarterly meeting of the Hancock County Mental Health Advisory Committee, her organization and other social service groups in the county are seeking a combined transportation agency.

"We hope by July we will have a plan to present to the Board of Supervisors to get a coordinated transportation system for Hancock County through the Urban Mass Transportation Act of 1974," Brackin said during the Thursday meeting at Hancock Industries. Brackin hopes to combine all of the locally fragmented transportation systems into one county-wide transportation agency serving all of the local social service organizations.

A coordinated transportation system would be more efficient, reduce maintenance costs and could furnish transportation for people throughout the county when not in use by local agencies," Brackin explained.

Also at Thursday's meeting, the committee elected 1980 officers. They include Wayne Ducomb Jr., president; May Beyer, vice president; and Lynn Shaw, secretary-treasurer.

Anita Lamb was recently reappointed as the local advisory committee's commissioner, serves as treasurer of the regional mental health commission and was recently appointed to the Hancock Industries Advisory Committee.

Other committee members are Pam Jones, Lynn Shaw, Randolph Bourgeois, James Travira, Eve McDonald and Douglas Williams. George Graves, supervisor of Hancock Industries, said participation in his program has doubled over the last three months and work projects are expanding.

"We are now gearing up for the Mardi Gras season. We are planning to bag and sell peanuts in front of our building on US-90 during the Triton parade Mardi Gras day and hopefully we may have a stand to sell some of the items we manufacture here," Graves said.

"Our organization is looking for projects that are public oriented," Graves commented.

"For instance, we built a wheel chair ramp for the adult activity center in Gulfport and we've been doing gardening for a lot of people in the area," Graves explained.

Robert Entrikin, coordinator for the Mental Health Center in Gulfport, said in December the center handled 1,569 cases of which 163 were from Hancock County.

The coordinator asked the committee to contact state officials and appeal for additional funding due to the recent termination of several federal grants. Lynn Shaw, County Welfare Department social worker, reported that incest is an increasing problem in the county, that a group home for retarded adults is needed and more public information is needed regarding the alcohol fetal syndrome. The committee recommended a follow-up by the Mental Health Center to the problems cited by Shaw.

"This valve is not a part of the space shuttle's engines," Herring added.

Herring explained the main propulsion test article consists of three of the main propulsion engines, the assimilated aft section of the orbiter craft, the simulated mid-body section and also the huge external fuel tank.

"We are seeing how the main propulsion articles are compatible with all of the other components," Herring said.

"We will also have three or four hours of special tests, prior to the firing of the main propulsion system, which are research type tests," Herring commented.

"However, if weather conditions appear to be worsening we may just cancel the special tests and go right into the firing earlier than planned," Herring said.

Herring added that the first orbiter is scheduled for launch late this year.

Anti-draft attitudes appal patriotic mother

Jan. 25, 1980
225 Boardman Ave.
Bay St. Louis, MS.

Dear Bay St. Louis, America:

I am appalled at the attitudes I have met since President Carter gave State of the Union Address! "State of the Union" means the shape our nation is in at this time.

As anyone who has traveled abroad can tell you, our nation is the most civilized, sophisticated, and advanced country in the world.

Visiting a country in Asia or Europe is like taking a trip in to the distant past...England is only 20 years behind!

How many "draft dodgers" have I heard of since Carter's speech, I have lost count!

How many mothers I have heard say: "Not my son!"

As the mother of a young son in the Air Force, it makes me very angry. No sour grapes, because my next teenager will be eighteen in a matter of months, and therefore eligible for the draft-another son only three years behind.

Our children will die... It is as natural as their having been born. The Bible tells us that "no man goes before his time."

How proud I would be if my son died protecting Bay St. Louis, Mississippi, America!

How much prouder then if he got drunk and smashed into a light pole—how much prouder than if someone mugged him to death; or some pervert murdered him; or he developed leukemia!

Why dodge around about it? God is not dead, nor does he sleep.

If war is inevitable then let us meet it with the pride and dignity of true Americans.

Sincerely,
Ms. Lucy Baker

I can't begin to thank you enough for the outstanding series of stories you ran as a result of your visit to Annapolis last month.

The information you provided in those articles will go far in encouraging and stimulating the Naval Academy as a college and career opportunity.

As you know, we too often hear about the failings of our youth. The stories you generated will serve to dispel the myth that the future leaders of this nation and the armed services are not able to meet the task.

Hancock ministers urge prayer during international unrest

Sea Coast Echo
Bay St. Louis

Dear Editor,

We the ministers of the interdenominational churches of Hancock County met last Tuesday for the monthly report of our Emergency Relief Agency.

During the meeting we expressed our concern over the needs existing outside our county.

We were especially concerned with the need for continued prayer to resolve the unrest in the Middle East created by the plight of our hostages in Iran and the recent invasion of Afghanistan.

In resolving to include these needs specifically in all our Services, we thought we could alert the public at large that the great need for these prayers is as great as ever.

By a constant plugging into the source of divine power many individuals will be able to effect what the world sources of diplomacy seem unable to bring about.

As we pray for these needs outside our community we feel that we can be reassured that God has his eyes on us.

Spectre of Warner suit slows Ladner pier repairs

By RICH ADAMS

Waveland Mayor John Longo Jr. this week said repairs to Waveland's Garfield Ladner Pier at the foot of Terrace Avenue will not be undertaken until safety of fishermen and others who use the concrete jetty is insured.

The pier has been closed since it was damaged by a tropical storm in April, 1979, and further damaged by Hurricane Frederic last summer.

The Board of Aldermen posted no trespassing signs at the head of the pier and police have discouraged use of that pier and another at the foot of Coleman Avenue.

Longo said the pier will remain closed until the city makes repairs in such a way that Waveland is sure no lawsuits will result from misuse of the recreational jetty.

The mayor said Tuesday morning repairs to that pier and other community recreational facilities were expected to be discussed in a meeting of Waveland Aldermen and American Legion Post 77 Wednesday evening.

"The pier will take money to fix. Another thing is we must be especially careful because municipalities are currently the subjects of lawsuits," Longo said.

"We want to be sure we are well protected. We don't want to impose an unnecessary tax on our citizens," he added.

"This is a problem we have to get into the proper perspective and offer the pier to all our people without putting them in jeopardy," Longo explained.

Bay St. Louis is currently imposing a one-half mill sales tax on its citizens in order to pay a $461,000 damage judgement against the city.

The tax, imposed on Feb. 16, 1979, adds one-half cent to the normal five percent sales tax on saleable items not including gasoline.

The city was forced to pay the judgement when a U.S. District judge ruled in favor of the estate of Jimmy Warner II, a New Orleans teenager who was paralyzed after jumping from an unmarked city pier into shallow water. Warner died three months after the mishap in 1975.

A lower court had awarded the estate $750,000, but the U.S. judge dropped the judgement to $375,000 plus interest and attorney's fees.

Longo said Tuesday many piers along the Gulf Coast which were damaged by strong storms last summer are not yet repaired.

"We had some pretty bad blows last summer. None of the other piers are fixed, like Gulfport and Bay St. Louis," Longo said.

Longo would not speculate on what issues were to be discussed at Wednesday night's meeting, but said the two groups would possibly talk about community involvement in repairing or adding to recreational facilities.

"The city will meet with the American Legion to discuss the possibility of community involvement. The Legion is anxious to become involved in several community projects," Longo said.

"The city is interested in all groups and individuals who are helpful with matters such as this. We are delighted to discuss community involvement with them," he continued.

"I just cannot speculate about what we will discuss," he added.

Reports indicate that the meeting is designed to examine possible financial support from the Legion to repair the pier and construct lights at Waveland's Little League ballpark on Central Avenue.

Not Guilty

Holman.

Holman, a Coast Electric Power Association lineman, was found dead on the floorboard of his company-owned truck on Cuevastown Road with a bullet wound in the head April 14.

After sheriff's deputies arrested Moran the same day, he allegedly confessed to former sheriff Sylvan Ladner he shot Holman.

Holliman pointed out his client, "reserves the right to file motions."

We haven't had the opportunity to file a separate motion," Holliman said. Circuit Judge Leslie Grant set Tuesday, April 15 for the trial and the drawing of a special jury venire set for Jan. 31.

Carter was recently indicted by the Grand Jury for embezzling $3,859 in youth court restitution funds.

The ex-youth court administrator allegedly transferred some $3,859 in court funds into his own bank account during the period July, 1978 to Dec. 25, 1979.

Carter pleaded not guilty to the charges.

Holliman said his client, "would pass for announcement (of a trial date) later during the week."

Carter was arrested Jan. 17 for the alleged embezzlement of public funds. Sheriff Ronnie Peterson said he received a call from a Chancery Court judge on Jan. 7, suggesting he investigate the alleged shortage in restitution funds.

The ex-youth court administrator was arrested following the Grand Jury indictment which resulted from a coordinated investigation by the Sheriff's Department with the Highway Patrol, Youth Court and the District Attorney.

Other arraignments heard by Judge Grant were:

—A plea of not guilty from Vincent Ortiz Jr. charged with three counts of burglary. One count being a burglary at Cap'n Bob's Seafood City in Waveland and two counts of burglary of two area homes. Trial date set for April 16.

—A plea of not guilty from Harold Goins charged with three counts of burglary. Trial date set for April 7.

—A plea of not guilty from David Barker charged with three counts of burglary. Trial date set for April 17.

—A plea of not guilty from Clement Delacroix charged with carnal knowledge of a 15-year-old girl. Trial date set for April 18.

—A plea of not guilty from Wayne Champaigne in a theft of a 1976 GMC truck from Schuffert Pontiac-Buick-GMC, Inc. Trial date set for April 9.

—Ordered Delos Cuevas to pay Douglas Lizana $36,000 for damages suffered in a traffic accident.

Cuevas allegedly rear-ended a motorcycle which Lizana was riding.

News from the Church of St. Ann

A thought for the day from the library of Father Canisius Hayes, pastor St. Ann's Parish:

There is a haunting possibility that I have not heard the voice of God speaking to me in all the circumstances and persons in my life because I have been asking the wrong questions, making the wrong requests. I have been too busy speaking to listen. The Psalmist prays: "Create in me, O God, a loving and listening heart!" Maybe I should pray for such a heart. Powell

SENIOR CITIZEN EVENTS

By THERESA JAMES
RSVP Director

RSVP volunteers enjoy almost all of their assignments, but an especially enjoyable one is greeting travelers at the Tourist Information Center on Highway 90 in Waveland.

When a volunteer is enrolled in RSVP, he or she is given an opportunity to choose where they would like to serve.

Many warm, friendly people have chosen this station and they haven't regretted it.

RSVP Volunteer Jean Gleim who is also a part time employee of the Senior Aid Program, is coordinator of volunteers for this station.

As you can well imagine, most of her time is spent on the phone contacting volunteers. But she also has the responsibility of stocking the shelves with brochures and maps of the entire Gulf Coast and State of Mississippi.

She does this with enthusiasm and endless energy, belying the fact that she is over 60, which is a prerequisite for enrolling as an RSVP Volunteer.

She is assisted in this "behind the scenes" detail by her sister, Lila Greenfield, who also answers the constantly busy telephone when she isn't working as a Senior Aid at the Waveland Civic Center.

There are approximately 40 volunteers who man the Center 6 days a week.

Two people, usually a couple, serve mornings or afternoons greeting travelers with a warm welcome to Mississippi, offering them a cup of coffee and a very enjoyable break from the sometimes monotonous job of driving.

This time of year is a busy time for volunteers who man the station because so many people are traveling. While I was there for only a short time three cars stopped and that small building became rather crowded but the atmosphere was very warm as the charming ladies welcomed travelers with a "Hello, would you like a cup of coffee" - it was more like visiting in the home of a friend than an information center.

RSVP Volunteers are dependable, loyal and oh, so enthusiastic while performing their duties.

There is a registration book on the desk and all visitors are asked to sign their name and their home address. I was amazed at the different countries represented in this record book.

I thought our readers would be interested in the variety of foreign travelers who recently stopped and due to the Volunteer's welcome, left with a good feeling about people in Mississippi.

Some of the countries represented were England, Sweden, France, Spain, Switzerland, Italy, Germany, Belgium, China, India, Japan, Australia, New Zealand, South Africa, Israel and Canada.

The following volunteers serve regularly, usually the same day each week throughout the year: Mr. and Mrs. Roy Ary, Mrs. Clare Cater, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Maumus, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Clark, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Stromeier, Mrs. Josephine Scavo, Mrs. Winona Weinmann, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Loup, Mr. Joe Roppolo, Mr. Norman Scott, and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Geraci.

Also, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Baxter, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Schaefer, Mrs. Una Nuber, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Russo, Dr. and Mrs. Jesse Life, Mrs. Pere Cabibi, Mrs. Esther Oschmann, Mrs. Odette Puchot, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Urbina, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth McKenna, Mr. Gordon Stone, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Bussey, Mrs. Eunice Murray, Mrs. Roseann Ross, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Mahan and Mrs. Louise Markey.

We invite all of you who haven't stopped at the Information Center to just drop in and say hello, have a cup of "friendly" coffee and chat with our volunteers.

It is the job of the RSVP staff to collect the hours served and report to ACTION and the City of Waveland.

If a volunteer requests reimbursement for traveling to and from a "Station," we also compute the mileage and send a check for the number of miles spent traveling.

RSVP also covers each volunteer with insurance while on duty.

Again, thanks to all of the volunteers for representing your community so well. If any over 60 retirees would like to be one of a group of loving, giving and very much needed older American Volunteers, call the RSVP office 467-8204 and we will be glad to give you more information.

A Review

Artist Janet Martin cited as 'talented, innovative'

BY SHERRY SCHWABACHER
Library Staff

A talented and innovative artist's work is now being displayed at the Waveland library through February.

Janet Martin of Myrtle Beach, South Carolina is the artist.

She may be more familiar to local residents as Janet Covington, a graduate of St. Joseph's Academy in Bay St. Louis.

She is also a graduate of Mercy School of Nursing at Charlotte where she became a registered nurse.

She is niece of Mildred

Mean, Waveland librarian.

"I always had an interest in art but never had much formal training. I promised myself that when my two children started school I would take up painting, but I couldn't resist beginning two years before that," said Janet, who began her art study with acrylics, but switched to watercolors when she discovered that she enjoyed the transparency of that medium.

The artist tries to keep her paintings "loose and interesting - if it is an exact reproduction that's desired, a photograph is better than a painting," she pointed out.

"In a painting, you should try to capture the essence of the subject matter, the mood. A painting should be more than a pretty picture. It should give you a feeling," Ms. Martin added.

The subjects presented in this showing are for the most part traditional and familiar, and therein lies part of their appeal and charm. Yet Janet has created a freshness and vitality which has struck a responsive chord among her viewers.

The paintings are all matted in a soft, warm gray, which in no way competes with the tones of the individual pictures, but which adds a continuity and professionalism to the exhibit as a whole.

There are some twenty paintings in the exhibit, all for sale. Area residents are invited to attend the exhibit during regular library hours.

Consumer specialist warns of senior vulnerability

"MONEY TALK"
By Norine Barnes

Why are many consumer groups concerned about problems of our older population? What are the consumer related problems of the elderly?

Many of the elderly are female—they have difficulty with home repairs, finances and other tasks which were traditionally performed by their male spouses. The lack of past experience in these areas make the typical widow vulnerable.

The elderly have a lower formal education level. About 12.4 percent of all black elderly persons are illiterate. This fact plus their natural trust reveals part of the elderly's reasoning to trust a salesperson.

Many people on a fixed income will "tune" their ears to a get rich quick scheme. The elderly have fixed incomes and have limited access to information that would help them recognize fraud and deceptive business practices. Difficulty, physical and financial, in getting around leave the elderly at the mercy of mail order and door-to-door sales.

It is difficult to make a good decision in the market place when one has hearing or vision problems. Many of the elderly have both.

A study at Battelle Institute at the University of Pittsburgh revealed that the elderly are not defrauded more frequently than others, but the impact in terms of money and confidence is much greater.

MSU HONORS GOVERNMENT OFFICIALS—Hancock County State Representative J.P. Compretis, right, of Bay St. Louis, was among approximately 50 federal, state and local officials honored recently during Government Appreciation Day activities at Mississippi State University. Jointly sponsored by the MSU Student Association, Starkville Board of Aldermen and Oktibbeha County Board of Supervisors, the occasion was meant to formally thank the officials for their support of the university during the past year. Offering a welcome and a gift of MSU's famous Edam cheese was student Joseph Gammel of Long Beach.

Retired Persons offer tax aid

Tax-Aid Program sponsored by the Hancock County Chapter of the American Association of Retired Persons is offering free federal income tax assistance to low-income individuals and older Americans with relatively simple tax problems.

Gordon Stone, volunteer coordinator, advises that volunteer counselors are trained in the basic income tax preparation by the Internal Revenue Service and will assist tax payers in a step-by-step completion of forms 1040 and 1040A. Also taxpayers can receive information on tax benefits such as the earned income credit, credit for the elderly and pension benefits.

Tax-Aid will be offered at the Hancock County Public Library, 812 Highway 90, Bay St. Louis, Miss., from 1:00 p.m. to 4:00 p.m. each Monday afternoon starting February 4 and continuing through April 14, 1980.

Anyone needing help according to Stone, should bring the tax package sent to them by the IRS and pertinent tax documents, such as W-2 Forms, interest and dividend statements, and their 1978 tax returns.

Powell Ogletree, Rotary District No. 684 Governor, county and city officials will be invited to the Feb. 20 meeting. All past presidents of the Bay Rotary Club will be recognized at the Feb. 27 meeting.

The Honorable Dan M. Russell Jr., U.S. district judge, will be guest speaker. Judge Russell was the Bay Rotary Club's president 1971-72. Joseph Scharff who served the year 1935-36 as president is still a member. J. Norton Haas Sr. followed Scharff with two terms as president for 1936-37 and 1937-38.

Other former presidents still living are Octave Delph, Alden Mauffray, Robert Hamilton, Kenneth Whitfield, D. Howard Adams, David N. McDonald, Rev. Charles Johnson, Dr. Walter Russo, J. Hugh Miller, Thomas Louge, Joseph Marochino, Joseph McCullough, William Frisbie, J. Ruble Griffin, Fred Wagner, Adolph G. Uram, Fred Fisher, Dick Thomas, Nicholas M. (Mac) Haas, Richard Shadoin, John Rosetti and Jan Brameyer.

On May 25, 1925 a meeting was called at Hotel Weston on North Beach in Bay St. Louis for the purpose of organizing a Rotary Club in Bay St. Louis. Curry Bowen, a Rotarian from Gulfport, presided.

The first board of directors, elected at that meeting, were E. J. Leonhard, Charles G. Moreau, George R. Rea, L. J. Norman, Emile J. Gex, John Ososnach, and C. C. McDonald Sr.

The following officers were elected. E. J. Leonhard, president; Charles G. Moreau, vice-president; Arthur Scaife, secretary; and Herbert U. Canty, sergeant-at-arms.

Weekly meeting were stated for Wednesdays at the Hotel Weston. A charter was received by the club on July 29, 1925.

A history of the club written by the late Rene deMontluzin reports for the club's 50th anniversary, that one of the first projects of the new Rotary Club was a move in September, 1925 to organize a Chamber of Commerce.

A committee of over 30 persons was appointed in October, with H. S. Weston as chairman, to get the chamber formed at once.

In 1927, the Bay Rotary Club spearheaded the organization of free night classes for adults and children unable to attend day schools.

The classes were held in the public high school and opened on October 26 with an enrollment of forty with two teachers.

The subjects taught included basic English, spelling, writing and arithmetic. Funds to defray expenses were provided by the Rotary Club and by special monies obtained from the state. In his report Mr. deMontluzin said of the school, "These free classes were badly needed and most appreciated, and they continued for six years...one of this club's most outstanding achievements."

The Rotary Club was instrumental in getting natural gas in Bay St. Louis in 1938 after a year's drive pushing for the utility.

The Bay St. Louis Rotary club has been involved in many special projects for the community since its formation and continues today to fulfill a public service role.

One of the latest endeavors was the presentation of money to the Bay Tiger Booster Club for a ceiling installation at the Tiger Stadium dressing rooms.

Trophies are presented each year at the annual Field day of the County Fair. The Bay Rotary Club still meets at noon each Wednesday now at Scaife's Wheel Inn Restaurant on US-90.

Bay-Waveland

experiences power outage

By WAYNE DUCOMB JR.

Portions of Bay St. Louis and Waveland experienced a loss of electrical power for five minutes around 10:50 a.m. Tuesday morning.

Perry Gibson, manager of Mississippi Power Company's Bay St. Louis office, said the interruption in service was due to "one of the automatic recloser switches on one of the feeder lines not reclosing properly."

"The power loss effected about one-third of the Bay-Waveland area," Gibson said.

"There are three feeder lines coming into this area and one of these briefly lost power," Gibson added.

Gibson said a number of factors could have caused the switch to malfunction.

because he is presently a member of the Coastal Energy Impact Program's Marine Research Committee, explaining if he were on the port body he "would be sitting on both sides of the table."

"We decide who will get funds in the tri-county area of Hancock, Harrison, and Jackson Counties. I promised Governor (Cliff) Finch I would remain on the CEIP committee until I was replaced," Hamilton said Wednesday.

"There is a lot of money involved here," he added.

Wagner moved to accept the mayor's recommendation of Hamilton at Tuesday's meeting. That motion was seconded by Farve, but Councilman James Thriffliey quickly moved to table the issue.

Thriffliey's motion was seconded by Council President Peter Benvenuti. Councilman Wilmer Seymour also voted in favor of postponing the appointment.

The mayor must make an appointment to the port commission as present Commissioner Fred Curet's four-year term expires this year.

Wilson Webre, port commission executive director, said Wednesday Curet will remain in his post until a replacement, after approval by the Bay Council, is also approved by the governor.

Last month the council reportedly discussed possible appointees to the port body during a secret Thursday evening "workshop."

Hamilton is vice-president of the Beach Boulevard branch of Hancock Bank and served some 20 years on the Bay St. Louis Municipal Separate School Board prior to retiring from that seat last year.

Also at Tuesday's meeting, the council told Bay Police Chief Douglas Williams to keep three new walkie-talkies in the box they arrived in until a Law Enforcement Assistance Administration grant meets final approval.

Williams said he received word an LEAA grant for $2,500 was approved, but how says the loan may not have received final approval.

Wagner asked if Williams is willing to cut into his department's budget to purchase the hand-held radios if the LEAA grant is not approved.

"No. I have no idea where we will get the extra money unless we raise it in a benefit. A letter from Billy Ellis at the LEAA said the walkie talkies were funded, so I sent for them," the chief replied.

"If program is funded, lets go ahead and get the radios. If it is not funded, that is a different ballgame," Thriffliey commented.

Benvenuti told Williams to keep the radios in the box in which they arrived until the grant is approved.

"That way we can send them back if the grant is not approved," the council president said.

In other business, the council approved rebuilding existing water pumps in the Spanish Acres Subdivision at a cost of $1,400.

Bay St. Louis Public Works Director Billy Johnson explained that to purchase new pumps for the subdivision would cost only $271 more than to rebuild the old motors, but added costs for installation and modifications would be added.

"There are many modifications involved, the cost of which are unknown. We would have to pay for installation, pipe changes, and mountings. All we need to rebuild is new pumps and motors," Johnson told the council.

Farve moved to rebuild the three pumps, which was seconded by Wagner and unanimously approved by the council.

Also at the meeting, Bennett said three Comprehensive Employment Training Act (CETA) workers have been approved to work for the city.

The mayor told the council the workers will be performing three projects: painting the exterior wood at City Hall; replacing sidewalks in an area from Beach Boulevard up Ulman Avenue to Second Street, continuing on Second Street to Main Street; and installation of playground equipment already purchased by the city for Tiger Park.

The mayor said the CETA program pays the workers' wages and the city supplies materials.

Benvenuti moved to hire the CETA workers, and the council unanimously voted in favor of the action.

Jackson attorney and 16th Section consultant with the Mississippi Research and Development Center in Jackson.

"My plans are to develop the maximum potential for revenue from these lands through residential, commercial and agricultural leaseholds," Randolph said.

Jackson County Superintendent Jimmy Smith said he came to realize the need for a 16th Section land manager when he was recently asked to re-lease six acres at $1 per acre.

Randolph recommended 16th Section land reform policies which were adopted by the Hancock County School Board early in his term as superintendent.

Many of those reforms were later incorporated into 16th Section land reform legislation adopted by the State Legislature in 1978.

"The school board deserves much of the credit for those reforms in Hancock County," Randolph pointed out.

Randolph's appointment drew a tie vote Tuesday night when Board members Dave Radich and Tommy Brodnax approved the selection, and Dave Mallett and Lonny Adkinson opposed Randolph.

Board chairman Arthur Quave broke the tie in Randolph's favor.

The former Hancock superintendent also holds a similar, two-year contract with the Hancock County School District under which he is to be paid an annual salary of $15,000.

That contract, while staunchly defended by Hancock Board President Woodrow Ladner and the other board members, has drawn some opposition from Superintendent Billy Sills and members of the County Board of Supervisors.

School Board Attorney Joseph Gex has solicited an attorney general's opinion on validity of the board action approving the contract.

Randolph said both the Hancock and Jackson County School Districts contain more than 10,000 acres each in 16th Section lands.

Compretta clarifies position on deer hunting controversy

By EDGAR PEREZ
State Rep. J. P. Compretta of Hancock County said this week he does not intend at this time to introduce any legislation affecting the hunting of deer with dogs in the county.

"I feel the proper place to have this matter settled would be within the Department of Wildlife Conservation," the legislator reported from his Jackson office.

Compretta said when he appeared before the Wildlife Commission this month on another matter, the commission was hearing a similar situation from Panola County.

The commission received a petition from a group of Panola County landowners asking certain lands there be set aside for hunting deer with dogs.

The commission complied with the landowners' request, Compretta added.

"The law specifically spells out the powers and duties of the Wildlife Commission, and included is the power to establish rules and regulations as necessary to preserve the wildlife of the state and the formulation of all game laws," Compretta continued.

"That commission meets every month, and in my opinion, that's the proper place to take this matter for Hancock County," he said.

"Before my legislation on such an issue could be introduced, I feel it would be proper to hold public hearings, inviting hunters, landowners and any others who might be affected by such changes in the law," Compretta feels.

He said he had not discussed legislation of that type with any member of the Hancock County Board of Supervisors prior to last week's board meeting.

News reports published following that meeting quoted District Four Supervisor Sam Perniciaro as saying Compretta would introduce legislation restricting deer hunting with dogs in the NSTL buffer zone in Hancock County.

Thomas heads Coast Chamber organization

DICK THOMAS

Dick Thomas, vice president of the Hancock County Chamber of Commerce, has been elected president of the Gulf Coast Council of Chambers of Commerce.

Thomas is manager of Moore and Powell Inc., Bay St. Louis and is a Bay St. Louis resident.

He is the first member of the Hancock County Chamber of Commerce to be seated as president of the coastwide organization.

"The purpose of the Mississippi Coast Council is to be the unified voice of the business, professional and industrial community of Hancock, Harrison and Jackson counties in the development and coordination of programs to provide for the full utilization of the human and economic resources of the Mississippi Gulf Coast region," Thomas explained.

"Membership in the Coast Council is composed of the membership of each organized chamber in Hancock, Harrison and Jackson counties. "The Coast Council membership represents approximately 4000 members," Thomas added.

"What the Coast Council can do in unison is what single chambers and similar organizations sometimes find cumbersome - getting all the right people at the conference table with the right answers," Thomas said.

"One of the prime targets of Coast Council during the past years has been getting to the root of the delay in such matters of importance as the establishment of tourist information centers - the Hancock County Welcome center being a prime example," he continued.

Other areas in which the Council can be effective include efforts for the erection of necessary tourist and beach signs, directing traffic away from I-10 to the shoreline and legislation effecting the Mississippi Gulf Coast, such as establishment of a degree granting institution," Thomas stated.

Hospitality Center landscape bid ok'd

The State Highway Commission awarded a contract Tuesday, to landscape the Hospitality Station area on Interstate 10 at the intersection of Mississippi Highway 607 in Hancock County.

Low bidder for the contract was Marvin's Garden & Landscape Service, Inc., of Sarasota, Florida, for $361,446.66.

The building, according to Highway Commissioner Bob Joiner, will be maintained by the Highway Department and will be operated by Agricultural and Industrial Board personnel. The landscaping project will complete the construction work at the station.

Keeping with the tradition of the antebellum style building, the landscaping will include Magnolias, Weeping Willows, and various species of oak trees.

Shrub planting will include Sweet Olive, Wax Myrtle, Red and White Oleander, assorted junipers, Red Crape Myrtle, a variety of azaleas, Yaupons and Asiatic Jasmine.

The facility will be used to welcome visitors using Interstate 10 from Louisiana as well as to provide information to the traveling public.

Four other Hospitality Stations are opening presently and are located in Pike and DeSoto Counties on Interstate 55, Lauderdale County on Interstate 20, and one in Pearl River County on Interstate 59.

Joiner said, the contractual completion date is May, 1982.

SEA COAST ECHO-THURSDAY, JANUARY 31, 1980-11A

PIONEERS IN ENERGY

Half a century ago some 40 companies were consolidated under the name of United Gas Corporation. Thereafter, they went on to write an illustrious history of harnessing nature for human advancement.

The back-breaking days of swamp and bayou pipeline crossings are now legend. From the basic technology of early pipeline construction, the company has progressed to the point where it plans, engineers and conducts some of the world's most sophisticated onshore and offshore pipeline operations.

The product of these pioneering years is one of the largest transmission systems in the nation, supplying Gulf South homes, businesses and industries with natural gas, the premium fuel.

United Gas Pipe Line Company was the principal gas transmission unit under United Gas Corporation from the 1930's to the mid-60's. Following a merger, it had the same function under Pennzoil Company until 1974 when United Gas Pipe Line Company emerged as the independent, publicly-owned successor to the trail-blazing pipeline of yore.

In 1976, United Energy Resources, Inc. was formed as the parent company of United Gas Pipe Line Company and its subsidiaries. Today, some 20 United Energy Companies are working in most all phases of the energy business, helping to build a better energy future for us all.

United Gas Pipe Line Company, meanwhile, maintains an aggressive search for new natural gas for its pipelines, seeking supplies in Alaska, Mexico and Canada in addition to most major productive regions of the United States.

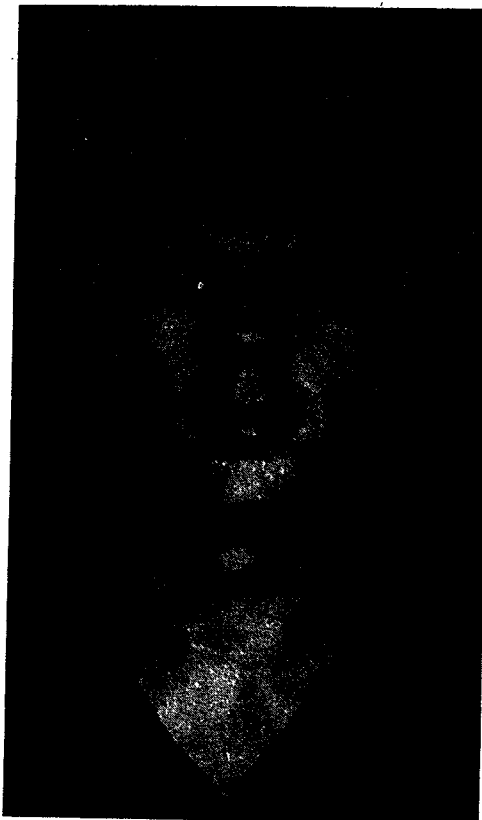

It's a long way from 1930, but as United Gas Pipe Line Company and the other United Energy Resources, Inc. companies celebrate our Golden Anniversary in 1980 we will be seeking new energy with the same vigorous spirit of our illustrious heritage.

St. Ann's carnival ball is Saturday

St. Ann's Carnival Association's sixth annual Bal Masque will be Saturday in the parish hall, Lower Bay Road, Clermont Harbor from 8 p.m. til midnight.

Continuing a tradition started six years ago, the selection of the king and queen remains a closely guarded secret until the night of the ball when they are presented as rulers of Mardi Gras mythical domains.

St. Ann's Carnival Association includes local residents as well as summer residents, relatives and friends whose purpose is to stage a once-a-year ball, with enthusiasm that renews itself year after year.

Membership is unlimited. St. Ann's contribution to the Gulf Coasts' observance of Mardi Gras season also enhances the civic and cultural life of the parish.

A limited number of tickets are now on sale and may be obtained from any association member or from Ladner's Grocery, Clermont Harbor. Donation $4.00 per person. Music for dancing will be provided by "The Country Classics."

Carnival team lists activities

Our Lady of the Gulf's Marengo-Breland carnival team has four events scheduled this weekend and the general public is invited to attend.

A fish fry 5-8 p.m. Friday at the OLG cafeteria for $2.50 per person.

After the fish fry, at 8 p.m. there will be a house party in

Dr. Earl Breaux's home, 320 South Beach Road, Waveland. There will be a pancake breakfast immediately following all Masses in the OLG cafeteria this Sunday. Later, all day Sunday, there will be a mini carnival also in the OLG cafeteria with fun games, prizes, food and an auction.

BWYC's 6th annual Mystic Carnival slated Saturday

The sixth annual Mystic Carnival Ball of the Bay-Waveland Yacht Club is slated Saturday, 8 p.m.

Names of king and dukes were selected several weeks ago, but their identities are known only by the carnival captain, her co-captain and select committee members.

Initiated six years ago, the Mystic Carnival is among the highlights of the Mardi Gras season in the Bay-Waveland area.

The Club's ladies auxiliary sponsored the first ball in 1974, and they have been presented annually to a packed house each year since.

Highlights of the evening in addition to naming of the king and dukes is the unique selection of the queen and her royal maids which takes place during the ball itself.

That tradition helps to create a special aura of intrigue and excitement each year.

According to the captain, the ladies court selection is made through the intercession of the "Goddess of Chance." Every woman member of the club is eligible to be named queen or maid.

As the ladies enter the Club the evening of the Carnival, each places her name in a "Special Queen's Box," to be used for the drawing of the Royal Court.

Seven names are drawn. In keeping with an age-old Mardi Gras tradition, these seven court members take a piece each of a King's Cake specially prepared for the occasion.

The lucky lady choosing a slice with the golden bean is crowned queen, the six others choosing a slice with a silver bean become royal maids.

The queen and her maids are then presented to the king and his dukes and a round of dances begins.

The club transformed for the evening into a mini-version of Versailles.

The Ball will be followed by a breakfast of grillades and grits prepared by auxiliary members who are gourmet chefs.

Mrs. Phil Williams and Mrs. M.C. Hunter are chairman of this event.

Commodore Lucien Gex and Vice-Commodore Charles Breath will serve as general court committee chairman of the ball.

Col. Randolph Bourgeois is floor committee chairman, assisted by Phil Williams and M.C. Hunter.

Receiving will be Mrs. Lucien Gex, Mrs. Charles Breath, Mrs. Randolph Bourgeois and Mrs. Pinkie Baxter.

Rear-Commodore Maurice Eagan is the master of ceremonies.

Verna Brennan is captain and Bobbie Goodell, co-captain. Staging and lighting are managed by Alice and John Holmes.

Diamondhead Garden Club tells Mardi Gras plans

The Diamondhead Garden Club met recently at the Country Club with Mrs. Joseph Finley presiding.

Chairmen's reports included that of Mrs. Dot Jordan, Christmas Decorations chairman, who announced the following winners: Mr. and Mrs. Pflugfelder, over-all winner; First place, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Gatipon; Second place, Mr. and Mrs. J.E. Peters; honorable mention, Mr. and Mrs. F.J. Corales.

Doorways: First place, the E.C. Deans; second place the Thomas A Brauds; third place the Louis D. Gillorys, and honorable mention, the Joseph J. Finleys.

Horticulture chairman, Mrs. Myra Craft, gave informative talk on the correct procedure and season to prune shrubs.

Mardi Gras Chairman, Mrs. John Booth, reported on plans for this year's parade. The Garden Club's theme will be "Grass Roots of Diamondhead."

Mrs. Clarence Evans spoke to the group about the upcoming Deep South Regional and Garden Clubs of Mississippi conventions, to be held at the Hilton Hotel in Biloxi on March 9-13. She is registration chairman for the two events, and asked Diamondhead Garden Club members to volunteer time to help man the registration tables.

A new member, Mrs. Ray Gale, was welcomed into the Club.

A slide program was given by Mrs. William Grace of New Orleans of wildflowers of the Eastern and Western Mountains of the United States.

Mrs. Grace has over 6000 slides of wildflowers, and her program was unsurpassable.

Mrs. Finley reminded members of next month's meeting, which will be given by Mrs. St. Marc Plotte on "Vegetables in your Garden."

This announcement prompted one member to tell the Club that 1980 is the International Year of the Family and the Garden Club Year of the Cucumber.

The initial plantings for a Memorial Garden were made immediately after the meeting adjourned. Two large magnolia trees were given by Mr. Charlie Cantrell in memory of his wife, Josephine Cantrell, and a dear friend, Mrs. Pat Wadington.

The dedication ceremony was combined with Arbor Day, with an appropriate commentary given by Mrs. Patty McMurray, Arbor Day chairman.

Tax assessor slates NARFE address Friday

Harrison County Tax Assessor Jim Wetzel will address members of Gulf Breeze Chapter No. 1571 of the National Association of Retired Federal Employees on tax assessment and answer pertinent questions from the membership Friday.

This subject is of particular interest at this time due to pending state legislation on property reappraisal. The luncheon meeting will be held at the Holiday Inn on East Beach in Gulfport at 11:00 a.m. Friday.

Federal retirees and Federal employees 50 years or older, with at least 5 years of service are welcome to attend the luncheon meeting and are eligible to join the Gulf Breeze Chapter.

County Agent's notes by John Smith

Hancock County officials were awarded certificates for completing an orientation and training workshop for newly elected county supervisors held in Jackson Dec 19-20.

Mike Necaise, Chancery Court Clerk, and Roger Dale Ladner, District Three supervisor, received instructions on managing county finances, managing county personnel, purchasing and public contracting, and managing county road system.

Governor-elect William Winter, the conference keynote speaker challenged the supervisors to join him in a two-pronged approach to governmental problem-solving.

Noting that he was a newly elected governor just like they were newly elected supervisors, Winter suggested that planning be done to set critical priorities and that top importance be given to the performance of our duties in the equitable administration and delivery of services to the people.

The workshop was sponsored by the Mississippi Association of Supervisors (MAS), and coordinated by the Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service (MCES) Center for Governmental Technology.

"As county officials deal with issues vital to the welfare of their communities and their director."

"Education is not something to prepare you for life, it is a continuous part of life," he noted.

James M. Hooper, President of MAS, emphasized the role of supervisors as managers of more than 175 county functions and praised the supervisors for their attendance as an indication of a desire to keep up to date on the many changes taking place in county government.

William A. (Bill) Allain, General-elect, in concluding the conference, stressed the importance of supervisors keeping abreast of legal issues and working together as a board.

Among the program's other noted speakers were: Mason Shelby and Tommy Dyson, State Department of Audit; Jimmy Heidel, Bolivar County Administrator; and J.W. Kemp, past president, County Engineer's Association.

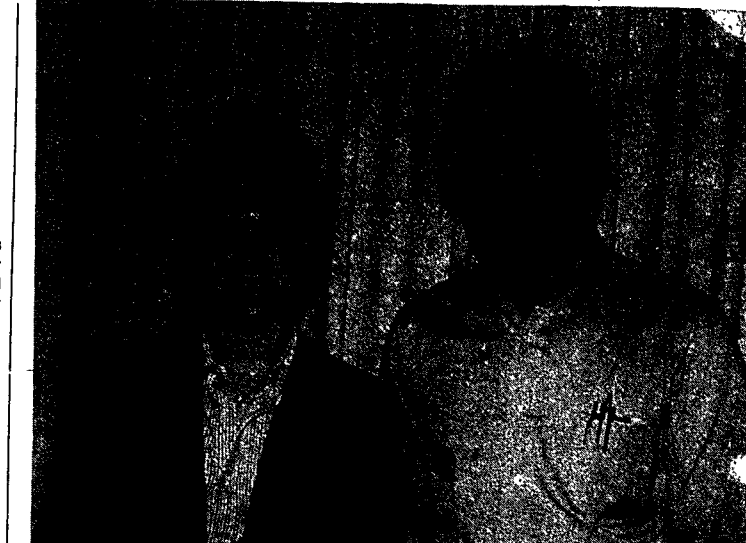

These workshops were financed in part by the Intergovernmental Personnel Act of 1970, U.S. Office of Personnel Management, Office of Federal-State-Local Programs, Office of Governor.

Book Review

By JOE PILET

The purpose of the Postmasters Gazette is to inform, educate and entertain postmasters of America.

Bay St. Louis' postmaster, Thomas W. Hill, in response to evidenced interest in the mural to be seen in the local post office, shared information on New Deal Art gleaned from Vol. 57 of the Gazette.

The article, NEW DEAL POST OFFICE ART, was researched and written by Karel Yasko, a mural painter presently serving as counsellor for Fine arts and Historic Preservation for the General Services Administration in Washington. His task is that of preserving and cataloging New Deal Art.

"The depression programs provided much more than food for hungry artists," Yasko said, and added a program was designed to support unemployed American artists when Harry Hopkins sagely said: "Hell, they've got to eat just like other people."

That was in 1933 and, as an administrator of the Civil Works Administration, Hopkins allocated more than a million dollars for a three months program.

This program was later extended with additional funds.

The Public Works Art Project's objective was to give work to unemployed artists who would decorate public buildings.

These persons worked for an average salary of thirty-four dollars a week, equivalent to plumber's wage scale.

Artists worked in mediums of their choice. They painted murals, did drawings and etchings, added sculpture and pottery. The idea was to promote American art.

Postmaster Hill is justifiably proud of the "New Deal Mural" in the post office here. Evidently the artist knew the community well and preserved rich historical lore. The American Indian, the ment and weed control programs for close-up soybeans.

Mississippi Commissioner of Agriculture and Commerce Jim Buck Ross and other leading state and national agricultural officials will be on the program. Soybean growers and others interested in the soybean industry should attend Soybean Day.

It is the time of year that gardeners and farmers should start making plans and preparation for the 1980 growing season. You should take a look at your production levels last year.

If you would like more information on growing a good garden, you can contact the County Extension Office at 405 Necaise, Bay St. Louis or you can call 467-5456 and we will send the information to you. Let's make 1980 a good year and grow more vegetables. Cut down on your food budget and help fight inflation.

Agriculture Today

by Ed Curran
U.S. Department of Agriculture

Ever wonder who owns the land? The Department of Agriculture made a study recently to find out—and, received some amazing answers.

First of all, it discovered that the government—federal, state, and local—owns 40 percent of the nation's 2.3 billion acres. That leaves 60 percent—about 1.4 billion acres in all—in private hands.

The survey showed that half of that privately-owned land is owned by only 1 percent of the landowners. Which seems to point to big holdings for farmers, right? Not so! The survey showed that ownership of farm and ranch land is less concentrated than the over-all ownership, with 1 percent of the owners holding only about 30 percent of the farmland.

It showed that there are about 28.8 million landowners in the United States; that most owners are white, 50 years of age and older, and male.

Surprisingly, the report shows that education apparently is not a factor in the ownership of land. A third of the landowners have 11 years of schooling or less (nearly 20 percent of them have 8 or fewer years of schooling); approximately a third of the landowners are high school graduates; and, approximately a third of them have attended college.

A breakdown of the government land holdings shows that the federal government holds 762 million acres; state and local governments own 136 million acres; and, 61 million acres are held in trust for American Indians.

The report shows that white, non-Hispanics comprise 90 percent of the landowners and own 97 percent of all privately-held land. Black non-Hispanics make up only 4 percent of the landowners and own only 1 percent of the land.

Sole proprietors and husbands and wives own two-thirds of all privately-held land and almost three-quarters of all land in farms and ranches.

Almost 70 percent of the land is held by persons 60 years of age or older. Those under 35 years of age own only 6 percent of the land. About 80 percent of the landowners are male. But, this figure does not include female ownership through husband and wife holdings and partnerships.

Farming may be big business, but 57 percent of the owners of farm and ranch land own 50 acres or less; 72 percent of them own 99 acres or less; 86 percent of them own less than 200 acres.

Corporation ownership is a factor in over-all land ownership, but not much of a factor in the ownership of farmland. The survey shows that while so-called non-family corporations own nearly 10 percent of the nation's privately-held land over-all, they own only about 2 percent of the nation's farmland. Foreign ownership is still not a factor. Foreigners own less than 1/10th of 1 percent of the nation's land.

Doris Virginia Wigington, from Meridian, is a Mississippi Brownbuilder—one of the men and women of Brown & Root—working for you in Mississippi.

Doris joined Brown & Root on a major power plant construction project in 1976. She started as a millwright helper. She later worked as a welder helper and now uses both skills as a millwright-welder. She lives in Escatawpa, attends Bethel Assembly of God in Pascagoula and likes to go fishing in her spare time.

Mississippi Brownbuilders like Doris are working for you and thousands of your neighbors. They're helping to build the hardware, such as oil fields and power plants, which will help insure Mississippi's future growth and prosperity.

Because of Brown & Root's policy of hiring locally first, most of our Brownbuilders here are Mississippi natives or longtime residents. Many of them first joined Brown & Root at project personnel offices near their homes.

Brown & Root hires and promotes solely on the basis of individual ability and merit. Anyone willing and qualified is eligible to work. That way, local communities, counties and the state get maximum benefit from projects on which we work—hundreds of thousands of dollars in payrolls, purchases, savings and taxes.

Pass Garden Club reports:

Food gardening 8th ranked recreation

The Pass Christian Garden Club met on January 3 at the Pass Christian Golf Club. In the absence of the President, Mrs. R. Kitts Wallace, Mrs. Harrison Morgan, vice president, presided. The meeting opened with the reading of Marian Holmes' prayer by Chaplain Mrs. Theo T. Moore.

Among special reports, Mrs. Gordon Howell said her committee had been working on the H.A.N.D.S. project.

Horticulture Chairman Mrs. Howard Haines urged members to conserve energy by being sure that as many members as possible ride in each car to the meetings.

A prize will be offered each month to the driver transporting the most members. She cited statistics from Christian Science Monitor, Dec. 21, 1979, stating that some 61 million of America's 78 million households practice some sort of horticultural endeavor; that food gardening occupies the attention of 33 million families - which puts food gardening No. 8 on the recreation list; that one in three food gardeners has been raising his own food for less than ten years, and that new gardeners are primarily college educated.

The statement concluded by adding that the average cost per garden was $19, with an average yield of $386, with a total retail value of produce from American gardens of $13 billion.

The tomato was the most popular vegetable. Mrs. Haines urged experienced gardeners to give all the help they can to the new gardeners.

Wildflower Garden Chairman Mrs. Drury Dragon, reported damage inflicted on the clubs garden by Frederic would be repaired in February. She urged members to plant one oak tree a year in hopes of overcoming the harm done by storms.

Mrs. Dorothy Dennis, founder of the Pass Christian Garden Club and honorary member, was a guest at the meeting.

Mrs. William Harrison discussed native birds and their problems of flying into broad glass windows.

When birds have fallen on a concrete patio at her home, she has been able to hold them in her hand for a time and in most cases they have revived, even one that struck the windshield of her car on the highway.

Mrs. Harrison emphasized the enormous economic importance our feathered friends assume in that they consume tremendous quantities of weed seeds, insects, and rodents. "It is important that we feed the birds and do it consistently or gradually withdraw the feeding since the birds soon learn to depend upon people," she noted.

Mrs. Harrison suggested putting out a box of small bits and pieces suitable for nest building such as feathers, string, or hair.

She reminded members dead trees that have not been treated with creosote are favorite nesting spots for many birds, so it would be helpful to leave one or two for the use.

Hostesses were Mrs. Harry Wittmann and Mrs. Otis Cason, with assistant hostesses, Mrs. Victor Blaize, Jr., Mrs. Theo Moore, Mrs. Frank Wharton, and Mrs. R. Parnell McKay.

R for your child's safety

Shopping parents who are more watchful for a good buy than they are of their child's safety on a store escalator may see their young one injured in the bargain, says Dr. Albert H. Domm, child safety specialist and former medical director of the Prudential Insurance Co.

"The most important measure in preventing injuries," says Dr. Domm, "is to convince youngsters that the escalator is not a toy. Too often accidents occur when children engage in horseplay, such as going up the down staircase."

Sitting on escalator steps is an open invitation to painful hand or buttock injuries, according to the former Prudential medical director. Similarly, riding on the handrail can also lead to mangled fingers or sudden spills. He cautions parents against placing a toddler's stroller on the moving stairs. The chance of the infant being tipped over is too great a risk. Always take the child's hand before stepping on the escalator, advises Dr. Domm. Many parents have lost their balance and fallen while reaching back for the youngster.

He recommends that a child never be permitted to carry heavy bundles on an escalator. The packages could obscure his vision or cause him to stumble when he reaches the next landing.

Consumer specialist explains differences in microwave cooking

"MONEY TALK"

By Norine Barnes

Microwave ovens can save time and energy and also help preserve the nutritional qualities of food. But when using microwave ovens, people must be aware of how this new method of cooking differs from traditional methods, and be prepared to make changes in their cooking techniques.

The form of energy used is similar to radio and TV waves. It makes the molecules in food vibrate rapidly, producing heat.

Because food is heated quickly, it can save time when used for defrosting, baking, reheating food during a meal, heating left-overs, and cooking for small families or making single servings.

This method of cooking gives results that are closer to the effects possible with "top of the range" techniques, rather than oven baking.

Although it is excellent for many things, microwave cooking is not good for browning meats and may not be the best method for cooking large roasts, for example.

High liquid items such as pudding mixes, or stews that must simmer for a long time on a low setting may require enough cooking time in a microwave oven so that neither time nor energy is saved.

Unlike traditional ovens, which generally cook in the same amount of time no matter how much food is placed in the oven, microwave ovens require additional time for additional amounts of food.

For instance, one potato may cook in a microwave oven in about four minutes, but six potatoes would require nearly six times that length of time. Although large amounts of food can be cooked by the microwave method, doing so may not save time.

Using the microwave oven for the things it does well, however, will result in better nutritional food quality, in addition to saving time and energy. Because foods cook in shorter times and require less liquid, nutrients are better retained, as well as taste, color, texture, and aroma of foods.

The important thing to remember is to "think microwave." You have to change the way you cook to get the best use out of a microwave oven.

Rather than cooking many things at once, foods are cooked separately, and in sequential order, in most microwave ovens.

In a sample dinner menu, the baked apples for dessert would be cooked first and allowed to cool while other items are being prepared. Large cuts of meat and other items that require more time would be next, and then short cooking time items such as vegetables and breads to be warmed would be next. Any foods needing to be reheated and breads to be warmed would be next. Microwave ovens come with cookbooks explaining the techniques for microwave cooking, but once the cook understands the principles, traditional recipes can also be converted to microwave cooking.

Home Economist cites beauty of garnishes

By SHIRLEY C. ROBINSON

Garnish, as it relates to food, means to decorate, adorn or trim with something that adds color or flavor. It may be put on or around food as with parsley or nuts. You can use garnishes effectively to dress up leftovers and give them new appeal. Inexpensive foods are more attractive if you garnish them properly.

Garnishes have always been an important part of French cooking where they are not only simple additions to the dish but appear more as hors d'oeuvres or individual foods combined with a particular dish.

In Pennsylvania Dutch County, seven sweets and seven soups are traditionally served in every meal. This may be going a bit too far from the average homemaker, but certainly a serving of one or more sweet preserves, garnishes, sour pickles or relishes pleases the appetite and heightens the flavor contrast of the meal.

Let your garnish provide color contrast. Make it pretty but not gaudy. Choose the plate carefully. The dish, as well as the food, can be effective. Always leave some plate showing. It provides a frame for the food. Arrange food with imagination. Often the way you place food on the plate or platter is all the garnish that's needed.

Don't over-garnish, especially if you're serving buffet style or if someone is carving or serving the food.

Using your imagination, don't stick just to conventional garnishes. Simple and inexpensive garnishes, appropriate for most any dish include the following: Carrot sticks and curls can be made ahead of time and put in ice water to crisp.

Cut thin strips (lengthwise) in short of long pieces as you desire. For curls, use a vegetable parer and slice thin slices lengthwise down the whole carrot.

It practically shaves off paper thin. Roll into curl, fasten with toothpick and chill. Remove pick from curl before using.

Parsley sprigs are probably the most used garnish, giving a bright splash of color alone or along side other garnishes.

Parsley grow well so if you use a lot, you can consider growing your own.

Watercress makes a nice garnish as does a sprig of celery with leaves.

Radish slices and roses can garnish a plate or be used in a tossed vegetable salad for color during high price time for tomatoes. In season, tomato slices, wedges or small whole salad tomatoes are good.

Cucumber peeled or unpeeled, sliced in different shapes make a garnish as well as an edible addition to the plate.

If you have a leftover bell pepper in the refrigerator, don't let it go to waste. Slice it crosswise into rings or slice it lengthwise into strips to suit the dish you're garnishing.

Hard-boiled eggs, grated, sliced or cut in wedges are great on salads or casseroles. They add flavor, texture and color while supplying extra protein.

As with seasonings, garnishes should enhance, not overwhelm the dish. So, select with care and enjoy with the eye and the tastebuds.

Citizens group continues sales tax repeal effort

A group based in Holly Springs calling itself Citizens for Repealing of Sales Tax on Food has entered its third year in a continuing campaign to obtain passage of a bill in the Mississippi Legislature to repeal the 5 percent sales tax on food purchased in grocery stores for human consumption.

According to Census Bureau data, Mississippi has the highest ratio of persons living below the poverty level and the lowest per capita income of any state in the Union. The state also has one of the highest sales taxes on food.

While removal of the food tax would benefit those in middle and upper income brackets, those of lower incomes—including many elderly people—would feel the benefit most because they must spend a greater proportion of their incomes on food, said Clarice Campbell of Citizens for Repeal.

"Many members of the 1979 Legislature voted to reduce income taxes believing that would help families in the $10,000-$20,000 income bracket," Campbell said.

"Actually, according to the State Tax Commissioner's office, families in the $10,000-$20,000 group benefited only to about the same extent as repeal of sales tax on food would have benefited them," she added.

The difference in the two approaches was significant, according to Citizens for Repeal. Those above the $20,000 benefited considerably while those in lower brackets received no tax relief whatever.

"The sales tax is a regressive tax, meaning it hurts most those who can least afford to pay," says Robert Walker, legislative advocate for Citizens for Repeal of Sales Tax on Food.

According to a survey by the U.S. Trust Co., Mississippi has 4,557 millionaires, ranking the state 25th in the United States in percentage of millionaires. Yet persons whose incomes are so meager that they must rely on federal food stamps to maintain a nutritious diet have to pay the same 5 percent tax on food as these millionaires.

Food stamps themselves deserve some scrutiny, according to the December 1979 Monitor, a Jackson publication.

Based on State Department of Public Welfare figures, about $170 million a year is provided those in need because of adverse conditions such as inflation, unemployment, age, and other handicaps.

However, the full $170 million does not purchase that amount of food because 5 percent roughly $8½ million, is siphoned off for state sales taxes.

"This loss of over $8 million to those who need improved nutrition," says Citizens for Repeal, "is, in effect, double taxation. Our federal taxes are used to issue food stamps; then the state taxes the stamps when they are spent."

The most common objection to repeal of the sales tax on food is that the state cannot afford to lose the revenue. However, thirty never had such a tax; others have repealed theirs and found numerous ways to make up the loss, one being a more effective enforcement of the tax laws already on the books, Walker said.

Bills are being introduced in both House of the 1980 Legislature to eliminate the sales tax on food. Their passage will depend on how effectively the legislators' constituents convey to their senators and representatives their desire to have this unfair sales tax on food repealed, say spokespersons for Citizens for Repeal of Sales Tax on Food.

More information may be had by writing Citizens for Repeal, Box 22887, Jackson 39205 or Box 792, Holly Springs, 38635.

Hancock boxers slate
Bay bouts

Sam Schoonmaker of the Hancock Boxing Club won two fights in competition last weekend as that club travelled to Cutoff and Marrero, La.

Schoonmaker won a decision over Earl McCaby of Marrero as they stood toe-to-toe in a slugfest.

"The bout was very close but Sam won the decision," said Head Coach Harvey Mitchell.

Sunday Schoonmaker was rematched with McCaby in Marrero, where the fight was stopped in the second round and awarded to the Hancock pugilist.

"The first round the fans were on their feet because these boys were at it once eiried."

Robert Mitchell of the Hancock Club lost a decision to Willie Dorsey, James Beourgeois of Hancock lost to Jerry Dugan of Angola, and Jeff Hicks of Hancock lost to Tyrone Ashbrook of Marrero.

Archie Thomas of Hancock went down in defeat to Dan Mack of the U.S. Marine Corps, Timmy Beourgeois lost to Roy Stevens of Marrero, and Joe Pavolini lost a close match against Herman Henderson, also of the U.S. Marines.

Scott Colson dropped a match against Troy Lacompt of Waggoner.

Sunday Charlie Mitchell put on an exhibition round with Mike Jensen of Marrero in the 50-pound category.

In the first regulation bout, James Beourgeois of Hancock lost to Trent Baughn of Oceans Springs.

The second bout for the Hancock pugilists saw Timmy Beourgeois in a rematch against Roy Stevens of Marrero which resulted in another Hancock loss.

Robert Mitchell also lost to Cantrell Momb of Marrero in a close decision.

In "one of the best boxing matches witnessed in some time," Joe Pavolini of Hancock and Charlie Lel of the USMC Senior Division Boxing Team of Paris Island fought to a decision.

"These two open fighters displayed some punches and counter punches the top-ranked pros don't use," Mitchell said.

The coach said Pavolini sprained his finger in the second round but continued to fight, losing the decision.

Colson, fighting his third amateur fight, stopped Richard Thompson of Marrero in the first round with a knockout.

"Scott is looking very good for the Golden Gloves competition next month," Mitchell reported.

Hancock will host a one-night match on Feb. 23 at the

BKW pugilists record wins

The Bay-Kiln-Waveland Boxing Club received two matches in a 20-bout card in Saraland, Alabama recently as Todd Rooks and Mike McClain defeated opponents in the ring.

Rooks stopped Doug Stokley of the South Side Boxing Club when Stokley's corner threw in the towel after Rooks delivered a series of hard right hands to Stokley's head.

"Stokley is an experienced fighter, but developed a nosebleed early in the first round as Rooks, a Kiln resident, pursued his prey in the 20-foot ring," Head Coach John Whisenhunt said.

"No doubt about it, Stokley is tough. But Todd's motivation was too much for this 14-year-old Mobile resident," he added.

Rooks will be featured in a main event bout on a 23-bout card Feb. 9 at the Annunciation Gym in Kiln.

McClain, a 10-year-old, 68-pound pugilist, defeated Paul

Elliott of the Biloxi Boxing Club by a decision in three one-minute rounds.

"Elliott has much more experience than Mike, but Mike is a two-handed fighter who stayed right with Elliott and hit him with combinations and hard right hands," Whisenhunt said.

"This is the first time Mike has had an opponent stay with him the distance. Mike is from Waveland and is undefeated," the coach added.

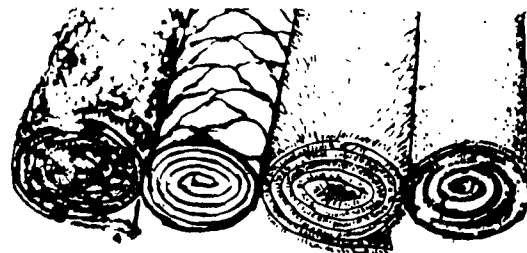

Attending the match but unable to get an opponent were Eric (Underdog) Whisenhunt and Dave Stringer.

Stringer lost a match the week before when the referee stopped the fight in the first round.

Coaching from the corner was Joe Tutt.

Breath's Boats and Motors has donated the semi-main event trophy for the upcoming Kiln match, which will be presented by Waveland Police Chief Donald Dorn.

Chief Dorn is a former amateur boxer and donated the junior main event trophy for the upcoming match.

PUTTING SOME PUNCH INTO CHARITY

It was a page right out of boxing history—Tony Zale and Rocky Graziano, two of the greatest names in the sport, back in the ring again after 30 years.

Mrs. Georgiana Bronfman weighs in Tony Zale and Rocky Graziano for a benefit return match.

There was no middle-weight title at stake this time, as there had been in 1946-47, when they fought three savage battles for the world championship. This time, Zale and Graziano were trading punches for charity. Their exhibition bout at a black-tie dinner-dance in New York City helped raise money for the Gauchito Basketball Fund, Inc., which is building a million-dollar recreational center for the youngsters of Harlem and the South Bronx.

The nostalgic rematch was preceded by an official "weigh-in," with Mrs. Georgiana Bronfman, head of the Gauchito Fund and wife of the chairman of the Seagram Company, Ltd., checking the scales. She pronounced both men only a few pounds over their old fighting weight. The decision? A draw, naturally.
